Complaint

of the 'Teen-Agers

Hope Chamber of Commerce turns over to us a bill of complaint it received from some 'teen-agers. It goes like this:

"We, the 'teen-agers of Hope, feel that Hope should be a 'teen-town."

"If Hope had a skating rink, a bowling alley, and other means of recreation all the surrounding 'teen-agers would come to Hope."

"As it is now, if we want to skate we have to go to Texarkana. If we want to go to a drive-in movie we have to go to Prescott."

"We feel that the older people in Hope are letting the 'teen-agers down by not providing means of recreation."

Thank you,
"TEEN-AGERS OF HOPE."

Recreation has been a familiar theme in this column. For years The Star has pointed out that while we have made considerable progress in developing outdoor events—particularly those revolving around Fair park—we haven't done anything for the winter season.

Specifically, we campaigned for a public structure which, among other things, would accommodate public bowling. For bowling is the great community sport through the winter months both North and South. A structure to house winter sports programs would run to such size that it seemed to us only a public campaign would ever succeed in getting it built—and so we hammered away at it.

For a time it appeared such a building might be worked out jointly with the armory or livestock coliseum projects, but these were put up separately and exclusively.

A public recreation building for basketball, basketball games upstairs with bowling alleys and other facilities on the ground floor still remains an important goal in Hope's community life. Some Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois cities about the size of Hope have public buildings which will seat almost the entire population of the town.

I mention this particular type of building and the bowling business because they are within the public domain.

Such things as skating rinks and drive-in movie theaters belong to private enterprise. I wouldn't presume to advise as to their feasibility, and certainly the city isn't going to enter either business.

But the bowling leagues clear across America are a mighty community-welder through the winter months for both young and old.

If we've been holding too tight a rein on our town this may be the time to loosen up a bit. The 'teen-agers' memo to Hope Chamber of Commerce is a straw in the wind of public opinion.

'Movietime' Plans Laid at Meeting Here

Theatre owners, managers, their families and employees in the Hope area are going to help the nation's movie industry celebrate its 50th anniversary.

Plans were outlined for a "Movietime, Arkansas, U. S. A." at a meeting in the Saenger Theater today.

The meeting was held by Bill Sockwell and Jack Bonar of Little Rock, who are one of three teams of theatre men making arrangements for a year-long celebration throughout the state.

Mr. Sockwell explained that the celebration would begin in October and continue for the next twelve months. The overall expenditure for "Movietime, U. S. A." will be more than $2,000,000. It will include newspaper advertising in all the country's daily newspapers, visits of 250 screen personalities to Washington and the capitals of the 48 states, exhibitions and other special events.

"Arkansas will be represented and participate in all these events," Mr. Sockwell said.

He pointed out the tremendous growth in the motion picture industry since its humble beginnings in 1902 with the opening of Tally's Electric Theatre in Los Angeles, the first theatre in this country devoted exclusively to the showing of motion pictures.

"Now there are 23,120 movie theatres in the U. S., and contrary to recent published reports, more theatres than ever before. There are 339 theatres in Arkansas, 20 more than there were three years ago."

He said the purpose of the celebration was to focus attention on the unique position the motion picture theatre has won in the last 50 years as the center of each community's entertainment and to call the public's attention to the superior quality of pictures to be released the coming year.

Reds Hint at Price to Revive Peace Parley

Tokyo, Sept. 13 (AP). — The Peiping radio threw out a hint tonight the price for resuming Korean truce talks would be Allied admission that all Red truce violation charges are true.

The United Nations command has rejected all of a long string of Red charges except one. It has admitted the accidental strafing of the Kaesong neutral zone Monday.

The Peiping radio quoted a Communist correspondent at Kaesong as declaring:

"The cease-fire talks could start again immediately and agreement could be reached in a short time if the Americans accepted the military realities" and took the responsibility for all the alleged neutral zone violations.

The U. N. command for the moment was saying nothing. It would not even say what was in the latest Red note handed Allied liaison officers Wednesday.

The Allied officers had just handed the Reds a note apologizing for the accidental strafing of the Kaesong neutral zone by an Allied B-26 bomber on Monday.

The U. N. command has not made the Red note public, and has refused to comment on it.

The command usually releases copies of such notes as soon as they are received from the U. N. advance headquarters at Munsan.

The public information office for the headquarters of supreme Allied Commander Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said it has been unable to develop information on the note after several tries. A PIO spokesman said he had "no idea" when the note would be released.

Sources in Korea said spokesmen at the advance headquarters were advised from Tokyo not to disclose the contents of the note until specifically instructed to do so.

When the note was first handed over, correspondents speculated that it was the Reds' official rejection of Ridgway's suggestion that the stalled negotiations be resumed at a new site. The Chinese Red radio at Peiping had broadcast such a message a few hours earlier.

Speculation grew that the communication might contain a new proposal — or a fresh complaint — from the Communist high command.

The Red officer who handed the envelope to Lt. Col. Lawrence Hill of Montgomery, Ala., U. N. command liaison officer, said merely that it was for Ridgway from the Communist leaders, North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai.

It was considered possible that Ridgway was holding up the note until he receives the official Communist reaction to the note of apology for strafing Kaesong.

Winning State Titles Is Old Stuff to Sonny Griffin, Young Hope Skeet Shooter

Hope has a 14-year-old champion in "Sonny" Griffin. (David Gilbert) who started skeet shooting at the age of 10 and a mere four years later has won 4 state championships, one Louisiana open trophy and numerous prizes.

His first state title, Junior Division, was captured in 1948 and was awarded a trophy for then being the youngest Arkansas skeet shooter in 1949. Last year he won a sterling silver tray trophy in the 20-gauge event in competition with senior shooter, at the Louisiana open tournament, making a perfect score. The same year he captured the Arkansas Junior champion trophy.

The first week in this month he successfully defended his title in the State Junior meet at Camden. Sonny has shot at meets all over this section and last year won a trophy in the National Skeet Shoot at Dallas. He shoots all gauges but the 12-gauge is his favorite.

His record with the National Skeet Shooting Association is 391 for the 12-gauge and .380 for the 20-gauge.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Griffin of Hope, the grandson of Gib Lewis, and a sophomore in high school.

39 Aboard Missing French Plane

Perpignan, France, Sept. 13 (AP). — Airport officials here said today 36 passengers and three crewmen are aboard a French DC-3 plane missing on its run over the Mediterranean from Toulouse, France, to Oran, North Africa.

Authorities at Toulouse said earlier there were only eight passengers and three crewmen.

They apparently did not include 28 others who boarded the plane here.

The plane left Toulouse Wednesday morning and was scheduled to land at Oran in the afternoon. It was last sighted over Valencia, Spain, Wednesday afternoon after leaving Perpignan.

At least one plane from Algeria and a torpedo boat from Oran are searching the Mediterranean.

Those who took off, according to passengers lists here, included 12 children, four of them babies.

The plane belongs to the Compagnie Alpes-Provence, which makes the Toulouse-Oran run every Wednesday.

Batesville had 3.29 inches; Paragould 3.15 and Gurdon 3.14.

Other stations reporting rainfall included:

Evening Shade 2.70 inches; Fayetteville .76 of an inch; Walnut Ridge 1.53; Port Smith .64; Dardanelle 1.31; Little Rock 1.23; Pine Bluff 1.18; Arkadelphia 1.08; El Dorado 2.08; Camden 1.30; and Texarkana 1.55.

The coldest spot in Arkansas today was at Devil's knob in Johnson county. The mercury hit 51 degree mark at that Ozark mountain weather station.

Arkadelphia reported the highest reading yesterday. The temperature there was 94 degrees.

Other low readings today included:

Fayetteville 54 degrees; Port Smith 60; Little Rock 63; Pine Bluff 67; El Dorado 67; Walnut Ridge 61 and Texarkana 69.

Then there is the City of Hope as contractor without profit instead of the private contractors of the 1920s.

Third we have our two local banks who for 5 per cent interest have bought all the certificates of indebtedness from the improvement districts, eliminating bond issues, bond attorneys, high interest rates, and extra charges.

Fourth, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Armistage and I, as attorneys for the various current districts, have been willing to serve for a very modest fee (in some districts the attorney has been paid nothing to date). Judge Pilkinton served as an attorney in several districts prior to his elevation to the bench. Mayor Lytle Brown without any fee as attorney has assisted as a lawyer in several districts.

Next, Mr. Charles Reynerson has served as treasurer-collector for all the districts with a fee not to exceed 1 per cent in any case, where the combined fee was 3 per cent in the old districts.

The last difference is one of the most important. The people in these current paving areas demanded full value for their investment and they had a mayor, city council, and city street department in sympathy with this opinion and with the ability and willingness to see that it was done. It is to be hoped that this good work can be continued until areas desiring blacktopping have been paved.

Belton, Texas — Miss Thalia Chism, daughter of R. E. Chism of Hope, Arkansas, has been awarded the Fannie Breedlove Davis scholarship to Mary Hardin Baylor College for the 1951-52 school year.

The $200 scholarships are given each year to seventeen outstanding women graduates of Texas high schools and to five young women from other states in honor of the former Mary Hardin-Baylor student who was influential in the organization of the Texas Woman's Missionary Union and the Southern Baptist Woman's Missionary Union.

This is a very important meeting and everyone is invited to attend. Besides electing new officers the group will hear a report of the State PTA Workshop, held recently in Little Rock.

Change Made to Balance Classes in Grade Schools

James H. Jones, superintendent of schools, announced today that effective Monday, September 17, all second grade children on South Main Street, East side and West side, will be transferred to Brookwood School from Garland School.

This is necessary in order to balance the teacher load in the two schools. If there is more than one child in the family they may also attend Brookwood if parents so desire. But it is necessary that second grade children be transferred. There will be no exceptions and all parents are urged to co-operate in this for the child's good.

The secretary's performance at the San Francisco conference last week earned him a generous amount of public praise. He even got a half-cheer from Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who conceded that Acheson did a good job of gavel whacking.

Acheson is in the midst of a Big Three foreign ministers conference here right now. On Saturday he will be off to Ottawa for wider consultations. His objective is a peace treaty or a contract of some kind with Western Germany.

If Acheson brings it off or makes solid progress his moment of peak achievement and praise will have come. At no other time since he took over the state department have those conditions existed.

President Truman is on record repeatedly that Acheson will stay on. Perhaps he will. The President is a loyal man. But he also is a prime politician. If he is convinced that Acheson would be a liability in the 1952 presidential campaign, Mr. Truman is likely to take advantage of a situation which would let his friend and advisor leave the cabinet without embarrassment and, even, with considerable applause.

Some other prime politicians in the Democratic party are doing their utmost to persuade Mr. Truman to do just that. They include some members of congress who believe their primary and general election contests will be easier next year if Acheson is out of sight.

However much the public may have whined it up last week when Acheson was knocking out Russia's Andrei Gromyko at San Francisco, the secretary remains accused of diplomatic fumbles. And he was the state department chief when the United States suffered some of its most disastrous diplomatic reverses.

Acheson shared with Gen. George C. Marshall responsibility for some major policies which badly backfired. Marshall resigned yesterday as national defense secretary. He was scarcely less controversial a figure than Acheson. And many believed he was becoming not much less a political liability.

On the rolling hills and plains of the western front, action was slow. Allied tanks were held back by Red troops for signs of a strike from their buildup forces there.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter reported that at least 250,000 tanks were believed in position on the western and west-central fronts for a possible thrust at Seoul, South Korean capital.

He said there are no signs that a Red smash is imminent but that there was speculation the Communists might try a drive this weekend, when the Korean moon is full. In the past, Reds have chosen the nights of full moon for attack.

Most sources, Carter said, doubted the Reds plan a major attack soon. Their present task appears to be defense, not attack.

Acheson May Be Slated to Retire Soon

By LYLE C. WILSON

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP). — Secretary of State Dean Acheson is the next likely cabinet member to retire.

Some of the conditions necessary to make his retirement possible have just been brought about and others may be just around the corner. The prime condition Acheson himself has put upon leaving the cabinet is that the air first must be free of dead cats. That was his own phrase.

He meant that he would not want to quit under blistering fire which has been poured on him so long, but would be agreeable to resign at a moment of peak achievement and some degree of public claim. He'd like a dignified exit, if any.

The secretary's performance at the San Francisco conference last week earned him a generous amount of public praise. He even got a half-cheer from Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who conceded that Acheson did a good job of gavel whacking.

Higher Beef Prices Face Consumers

By The Associated Press

Consumers this week faced the prospect of higher prices for beef, even as cost of most other foodstuffs slipped slightly below last week's level.

Trade sources also predicted that the price of beef would rise in the next few weeks. Further increases of from two to four cents a pound for home grade "A" beef have been reported since last week in several large cities.

On the subject of beef prices, stabilization director Michael V. DeSalvo told a Cleveland panel that every effort would be made by the government to keep the price of beef at $1.00 a pound, a day under present prices. By Sept. 15, he said, the price of beef would be $1.00 a pound, a day under present prices.

Washington hears that the government will raise beef prices next week enough to balance off the declines in hogs and tallow prices. That would amount to a price hike of about one cent a pound at wholesale.

The great seasonal increases for some fruits and vegetables were just about balanced by price drops for others, coming into abundant supply. Department of agriculture experts are having egg placed as one of the best buys of the week. The nourishing, protein-rich vegetable is currently plentiful and cheap.

Also lower in price this week are apples, lettuce, peppers, sweet potatoes, and corn. Brussels sprouts are appearing in eastern markets in earlier volume than before, thanks to a bountiful crop of Long Island and in the Catskill mountains of New York state. White potatoes are slightly higher.

Pears are scarce and at their highest price in some time.

Czechs to Be Allowed to Return

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 13. — American authorities in Germany announced today that Czechs, including passengers on a freedom train, flight into Germany Tuesday, will be allowed to go back to Czechoslovakia if they want to.

These persons are now in custody of the U. S. army, and high command officials have notified the Czech government of the decision to allow them to return to their native land, a confirmed American source said.

Twenty-five others, including the famous singer, were in the train, which was stopped at the border station at Aachen. The high command has made of their political activity.

Stars Battle Over Custody

San Francisco, Calif., Sept. 13. — Actor Frank Tane and his wife, Jean Wallace, battled to a draw in their latest contest over custody of their two sons.

Superior Judge Orlando H. Rhodes, declined to give the custody of the boys to Tane, who recently won Actor Council. While the custody of the boys, Tane and Wallace, the judge also decided to give Tane permission to take the boys out of the state.

Judge Rhodes continued the case until Jan. 7, 1952, and told the parents to try to work out a solution in the meantime.

Tane had requested permission to place his sons in school near New York, where he plans to work in radio and television. Miss Wallace asked outright custody. She has only visiting rights at the time home.

Slightly higher prices are being posted for bunched carrots, turnips and candelons. Snapbeans, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, onions, cucumbers and pears are holding the line. Beans, peaches, spinach and better tomatoes vary according to location, higher priced in some places and lower in others, but the changes are mostly minor.

U. S. Reports First Missile Squadron

Washington, Sept. 13. — The U. S. army today reported the formation of its first guided missile squadron, equipped with a new, spoolless, liquid-fueled, long-range missile, to be the first operational unit of its kind in the army.

An independent command and the missile squadron is being formed at Fort Belvoir, Ill., under the command of the first operational unit of its kind in the army.

The squadron will train at first as part of the air research and development command but later it will be made combat-ready by attaching it to the tactical air command.

The announcement came today, a recent statement by President Truman and several senators regarding creation of "fantastic" new weapons.

An air force spokesman described the missile as being similar in appearance to the swept-wing XB-43 Mach 3 jet fighter, but smaller. It is powered with one jet engine.

The spokesman emphasized that it is a "guided missile," not merely a drone airplane of the type used experimentally during recent years.

There is no provision for a pilot in the plane. The spokesman said the missile has been tested at Wright Air Force base at Dayton, N. M., and at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Point Alumni to Aid Ousted Cadets

New York, Sept. 13. — A group of West Point alumni will ask congress to act in behalf of the ousted military academy cadets, a New York lawyer said yesterday.

The statement came from Robert Hart, who conducted an unofficial committee investigation of the approximately 30 cadets for the New York Criminal and Civil Court Bar association.

He announced an end of the bar group's inquiry, intended to determine whether there was any violation of the rights of the cadets who were ousted for cheating on examinations.

Hart, counsel for the bar group's committee on justice, said data gathered at the hearings has been turned over to a number of West Point alumni.

He said these alumni — whom

SHY OF CANDIDATES

Defiance, O., Sept. 13. — The new coach appeared, the field was in shape, the uniforms ready and waiting — but only 11 men came out to fill them for the first football practice of the season at tiny Defiance college yesterday.

But Coach V. J. Green, who had the job last weekend, hopes a promised 13 other men will turn out. Defiance has a six-game schedule on tap.

Higher Beef Prices Face Consumers

By The Associated Press

Consumers this week faced the prospect of higher prices for beef, even as cost of most other foodstuffs slipped slightly below last week's level.

Trade sources also predicted that the price of beef would rise in the next few weeks. Further increases of from two to four cents a pound for home grade "A" beef have been reported since last week in several large cities.

On the subject of beef prices, stabilization director Michael V. DeSalvo told a Cleveland panel that every effort would be made by the government to keep the price of beef at $1.00 a pound, a day under present prices. By Sept. 15, he said, the price of beef would be $1.00 a pound, a day under present prices.

Washington hears that the government will raise beef prices next week enough to balance off the declines in hogs and tallow prices. That would amount to a price hike of about one cent a pound at wholesale.

The great seasonal increases for some fruits and vegetables were just about balanced by price drops for others, coming into abundant supply. Department of agriculture experts are having egg placed as one of the best buys of the week. The nourishing, protein-rich vegetable is currently plentiful and cheap.

Also lower in price this week are apples, lettuce, peppers, sweet potatoes, and corn. Brussels sprouts are appearing in eastern markets in earlier volume than before, thanks to a bountiful crop of Long Island and in the Catskill mountains of New York state. White potatoes are slightly higher.

Pears are scarce and at their highest price in some time.

State Loses Educational Leader

Clarksville, Sept. 13 (AP) — Arkansas has lost its second educational leader in a week's time. Dr. Fred A. Walker, president of the college of the Ozarks, resigned yesterday.

Last Friday, Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, president of the University of Arkansas, submitted his resignation. Dr. Walker, president of the Presbyterian school since September 1949, said he is quitting to join the staff of the Presbyterian orphanage at Farmington, Mo. He will serve as religious superintendent of the institution.

He said he was leaving the Ozarks post because of the health of his family. He has two daughters — and "the desire to return to the type of social service-religious work for which I am prepared by training and experience."

Dr. Herbert E. Buchanan was chosen by Ozark's board of trustees to serve as acting president until the position can be filled permanently.

A former professor of mathematics at Tulane university, Dr. Buchanan is a native of Arkansas and a nephew of Dr. George Earle. Dr. Earle was president of Ozarks for 50 of its 117 year history. He headed the institution when it moved from Gene Hill to Clarksville in 1891.

Dr. Walker, who first joined the staff a vice president under Dr. Wiley L. Hume in 1948, leaves his post at a time when a merger of the school and Arkansas' second Presbyterian college is being considered.

Merger of Ozarks and Arkansas college at Batesville has been recommended by a joint committee of the Presbyterian synod of Arkansas (U. S.) and the Arkansas Presbytery of the Oklahoma synod (U. S. A.). However, plans for the merger hit a snag Monday when the two groups could not agree on a site for the new college. Representatives of the U. S. A.

Low-Grade Gas Faces Nation

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 13 (AP) — The nation's motorists are faced with the prospect of unsatisfactory gasoline, a petroleum deficiency official predicted last night. C. E. Davis, director of refining of the petroleum administration for defense, issued the warning in an address to the National Petroleum Association.

He said that unless the refining industry is allocated more primary lead and lead scrap, tetraethyl lead needed for the antiknock quality of gasoline would be drastically curtailed. Allocation plans of the national production authority will cut the amount of lead available for motor fuel to 47 per cent of the August level, Davis added. "This would result in a three-percentage reduction on an average basis across the board," he said. "Such a drastic reduction would mean severe hardship to all refiners and marketers, and also would result in very unsatisfactory performance in a large segment of the automotive fleet of the nation."

Faces Murder Charge in Slaying

Forrest City, Sept. 13 (AP) — Joe Nichols, 60, has been charged with first degree murder in the shotgun slaying of his nephew, Erwin Quinn, 40, was shot to death Tuesday on a farm on Crowley's Ridge near here. The charge was Sheriff Roger West said murder in the first degree.

group, which controls Ozarks, balked at a proposal to set up the new institution in Batesville.

The proposal next will be submitted to a joint meeting of the two organizations in Fort Smith, Nov. 13.

Yanks Dare the Chinese to Attack

8th Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 12 — (UP) — United Nations troops, tanks, artillery and planes unleashed a new assault on Korea's central front today and Gen. James A. Van Fleet dared the Reds to attack and "give us the chance to slaughter them."

At the front with his men the tough U. N. ground forces commander predicted that the Communists will want peace before the winter, before we're through with them.

In Tokyo, prospects for resumption of the armistice talks seemed a bit brighter today. Agreement on the issue of Kaesong's neutrality appeared nearer after the U. N. admission that an American plane strafed Kaesong by mistake Sept. 10. It was up to the Reds to decide whether to accept the apology and resume talks or use it as an excuse for a propaganda attack against the U. N.

Allied troops hacked out gains along a 75-mile sector of the flaming battlefield from the "iron triangle" in the center of the Sea of Japan on the east as American infantrymen plunged into the U. N.'s second limited offensive in two days.

Van Fleet said he hoped the Reds would open an offensive of their own because:

"A Communist offensive would give us the chance to slaughter them. That way we could get them in wholesale lots and not have to kick them piecemeal out of the hills the way we are doing now."

The Reds have the potential for a pitiful offensive or a limited objective drive aimed at showing the U. N. back below the 38th parallel, Van Fleet said.

But he added, "most indications point to a defensive attitude on their part."

(In Taipei, Formosa, the Nationalist China Union Press reported that 100,000 Red troops under Pang Teh-jui and Nieh Yung Chun were deployed to Manchuria from inner China early this month, presumably for the Korean theater. It said rail traffic from Peiping to Mukden was jammed with troop movements and military supplies.)

"They're hurting," he said. "They're in bad shape and we are hurting them more and more. They will want peace before winter before we are through with them."

Van Fleet made an aerial survey of the central front battle area and then made a quick visit to one American unit.

He arrived as the new central front drive won two strategic hills north and northeast of the old iron triangle area above Kumhwa. But strongly entrenched Reds were fighting back viciously, screaming a challenge of "wolfhounds yah" at the charging Americans—a reference to the famous 25th Wolfhound regiment of the 25th Infantry Division, an old and feared enemy of the Communists.

On the eastern front, the 1st Marine Division, which opened an attack above the punchbowl area Tuesday morning and was well on its way to its objectives that night still pressed their limited drive Wednesday.

At other scattered points from the east coast to the central front area, U. N. units struck quick blows at the Reds Wednesday and beat off several enemy counter-attacks.

Wednesday's big push was above Kumhwa where massed artillery and mortars, joined by U. N. war-

Fair Enough

New York, Sept. 11 — When unions begin to scrooch up to the industries with which they do business, George Spelling, American, had better look out. The verb "to scrooch" is one of Huey Long's contributions to the American language. He told of a scrooch owl which flew into a hen-house and scrooched up to a big fat hen and scrooched and scrooched.

"And, pretty soon," he said, "there wasn't any hen."

Dave Beck, the heir apparent to the throne of Dan Tobin the grand exalted fathead of the Teamsters, recently has been writing editorials which amount to mash-notes to big business. He says labor (by which he means a few union bosses) and business ought to cooperate for their mutual good. Joan L. Lewis and David Dubinsky have sounded the same ominous note.

All three of these giant dictators have powers beyond the law which are much greater than the powers of any group of business interests. They are immune to the anti-trust law. They can maintain regional and national boycotts. They can levy taxes on millions of citizens to be used to subsidize business operations. They can maintain mobs of goons and they can rush money into a wobbling business firm to keep it going when banks would turn it down.

There is a great danger to the public at large when unions and business get together. When a union has a financial stake in a business, it is going to protect its investment by giving that business special favors. And when that happens the rivals of this favored company are placed under a handicap which, in very practical effect, is a violation of the anti-trust law, although the department of justice, naturally, would refuse to do anything about it. For that matter, the Supreme court probably would rule that such favoritism was not a violation of the act. It has repeatedly held that unions have a right to engage in conduct which would be criminal on the part of a business corporation.

While it is true that some unions publish vague financial statements it must be remembered that accountability, even in the strictest sense, does not restrict the uses of a union's money. A union may pour a million dollars into a brewery owned by its president or regional satrap and do so by the vote of just one man for all that any law says to the contrary.

Concretely, the printers' union has subsidized rivals to try to put established newspapers out of business in a number of cities. In Las Vegas, Nev., the Review-Journal has been operating through a picket line for a long time while the union attempts to put over an improvised and amateurish rival.

planes, blasted a path for American soldiers as they stormed the peaks of two hills.

The enemy was well dug in on the flanks of the central front drive and threw hot fire from small arms, self-propelled artillery and mortars into the attacking U. N. troops.

The airforce was every where over the front to aid the driving infantrymen and marines and the smaller attack groups.

The Review-Journal has continued City Herald, circulating in Pasco, to prosper, but the unfair list is a Kennedick and Richland has been and pour it into industries which dangerous blackjack. Advertisers picketed since March 3 1950 and then will be union properties. Could are the principal support of any a rival paper started by a Seattle private operations hope to stand newspaper and a union or council of political group has had the great against such competition?

unions can virtually forbid their advantage of a boycott campaign. Boyle Insists Young Just a Worker

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP).—William M. Boyle, Jr., told senators today that E. Meri Young was just another volunteer worker around Democratic national headquarters in the 1948 election campaign.

Young's name, which had figured in a sensational investigation of RFC loans, was injected into a senate hearing on election law reforms by Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.). She said she had heard reports that Young acted as Boyle's "alter ego" at the Democratic committee in 1948.

Specifically, she said, she had received reports that Young at times occupied Boyle's room at party headquarters in Boyle's absence and that telephone calls to Boyle "were" referred to and cleared through Young. Young is a native Missourian.

Boyle, now national Democratic chairman, promptly replied that there "must be some confusion."

Boyle said that in 1948 he, himself, had no official capacity whatever with the national committee but simply had pitched in as a volunteer worker to help elect President Truman.

Young was a central figure in a senate probe early this year into charges that an outside influence had swayed decisions of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, huge government lending agency.

Also figuring in the hearings were a royal pastel mink coat received by Young's wife, a former White House stenographer, also a Missourian.

Boyle said Young was just one of many persons who came into party headquarters in 1948 and offered his services.

He said that Young answered telephones and ran errands but had no title or other official capacity. Earlier, Boyle has urged that Congress outlaw the technique of completely baseless and defamatory "outlandish" political contests.

Declaring that "American campaigns have never been noted for politeness and the use of the kid glove," the chairman of the Democratic national committee added:

"And this new technique which is used to attack the loyalty and patriotism of decent citizens and faithful public servants is not in the American tradition. It is an imported technique which has already begun to poison our political life. It must be stamped out."

Boyle laid his proposals before a senate elections subcommittee and read by Senator Gillette (D-Iowa).

Gillette said the hearings begun today were designed to secure information about possible corrective legislation "to make our elections more reflective of the will of the people."

He said the subcommittee was particularly concerned about mounting campaign expenditures and "certain types of campaign practices that seem to be reprehensible."

Gillette said Guy Gabrielson, the Republican national chairman, also was invited to testify today but asked to have his appearance postponed because of a conflicting speaking engagement.

RENEW WORKING PACT

Toronto, Sept. 13 (AP)—St. Louis Browns today renewed their working agreement with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International league for 1952.

The U. S. Department of Commerce estimates that foreign showings return $100,000,000 a year to U. S. movie studios.

"WE go now," said Police Chief Jose Montero, as Holly gave him back his pen. "I will drive past the Porters' house and you can leave your message."

He kept his word and she gave the note to the house boy who came running out to the car. They drove for a long way along the coast where the unbelievably blue sea shone between the leaning gray boles of coconut trees, until they came to a beautiful hotel where they stopped, went for a swim and had lunch. Then they drove back into the mountains, through banana, coffee, and sisal plantations, past fields of sugarcane, through jungles where orchids grew wild and sapped the strength of great tropical trees.

All afternoon he encouraged her to talk about the United States, and she did so, stressing the fact that in the States one could speak and write as he pleased on any subject without fear of punishment.

"When people go to foreign countries and write what they see and hear," she said, "that isn't spying, or plotting against that government."

"I could come to your country and write what I pleased about your ways and your government?" he asked, incredulously.

"You bet you could," she told him earnestly. "You'd be surprised how many people come to our country and then go back home and write uncompromising things about us!"

"And you do not care?" he asked, still unbelieving.

"Not only that, we buy what they have written, and read their frank comments on us and our way of life, and usually we laugh about it."

"Here, it is not so!" Jose said with finality, and Holly's hopes dropped. He waved his hand toward a large white building in magnificently landscaped grounds, with a view of mountains on one side and sea on the other. "That is the Governor's house. Some day I shall live there—we shall live there, you and I!"

"But if you don't marry Carmelita," said Holly, "maybe her father—"

"Senor Hernandez will see that I become governor in time," he said, confidently. "Senor Hernandez has much, much money to buy votes for me. You will like it—being the governor's wife, Senorita. Jewels and beautiful gowns and balls where you will be the hostess. Me—I grew up in a house like one of those—"

He pointed to a cluster of adobe houses with palm thatched roofs. "My mother was like that one in the field. But I do not stay like that."

Holly sighed. She had told Jose she would marry him in return for Steve's life and freedom and with Steve feeling toward her the way she knew he must, it didn't make much difference what she did.

JOSE's home was in a valley, with purple mountains all around. It was a low house of pale green stucco, with a moss-green, tiled roof. In the center there was a patio with a tiled floor in beautiful mosaic patterns, with a splashing fountain. All around the patio ran a gallery from which one entered the various rooms of the house. From the roof of the gallery, and from beautifully wrought iron hooks on the posts supporting the roof, hung woven baskets in which were orchids in bloom.

It was a beautiful place, quiet, well-staffed with soft-footed native men and women who made her feel like visiting royalty. Yes, she could be happy married to a man who owned a place like that—providing he was Steve!

Dinner was served on the patio—a regular banquet of native dishes which Jose explained to her as they ate. Then he called the cook and the neat young man who had served them and he talked to them in Spanish. They smiled delightedly and bowed to Holly and said something to her in Spanish with many gestures. Then they withdrew.

"What was that all about?" asked Holly.

"I told them you are to be their new mistress," he informed her, calmly.

"Oh," said Holly, and an apprehensive chill struck her.

COFFEE and cigars were brought, and they sat by the fountain in reclining chairs while the people dusk came down around them suddenly, like a purple curtain falling on a stage. She suddenly became afraid.

Jose leaned toward her. "This will be all yours," he whispered. "You will marry me—tomorrow?"

"Give me a little time," she begged.

"Time? With Jose Montero making love to you?"

"I've always said I wouldn't marry a man I didn't love," she said, desperately.

"But how can you know you love a man if you are not married to him?" he asked with an indulgent laugh. "First you marry, and then love comes!"

He put his arms around her, and at the touch she pulled back.

"Oh, no, no, chiquita," he laughed. "Do not draw away! Come closer—closer into my arms."

"It's no use, Jose," she cried. "I can't go through with it. I—I said I'd marry you, and I'll keep my promise, but—please don't touch me!"

"But you are just shy," he laughed again. "If I kiss you a few times—deep, long kisses—you will want—"

There was a sudden commotion, servants' voices raised in voluble Spanish, and Holly and Jose turned.

Navy Planes in Alaska Grounded

Washington, Sept. 13 —(AP)—A naval air squadron in Alaska has been grounded by the navy for "moral reasons" after a series of recent air crashes there.

Word of the action was given to Rep. Mitchell (D-Wash.) today in a letter from Francis P. Whitehair, under secretary of the navy.

Whitehair said a special board of inquiry is investigating the accidents.

Mitchell recently requested that the navy ground all navy Privateer bombers pending a check into the circumstances of four crashes in the Alaska area. The crashes claimed a total of 45 lives.

Whitehair informed Mitchell that three of the crashes involving Privateer bombers were suffered by patrol squadron D.

For "moral reasons," he said, this squadron had been temporarily grounded by the commanding officer of the Alaskan frontier.

Because of the nature of the squadron's operations, Whitehair said, proceedings of the investigation must be confidential.

A naval air squadron in the Alaskan area presumably would be used to patrol the ocean area between Alaska and Russia.

In addition to the navy crashes, other other craft have crashed or vanished in the Alaskan sector since July. Several were air force planes. The toll of dead or missing is close to 100.

Whitehair termed the navy's string of accidents "baffling" and "distressing."

The most recent crash involving the navy's PB4Y-2, or Privateer, occurred Aug. 24 on an operational flight out of Adak. Whitehair said the navy hopes a "long survivor" may be able to shed considerable light on the cause of this accident as soon as his condition permits detailed interrogation.

The defendants, Francis Whitehair, John Henry Brewer, Thelma Brewer, his wife, Mabel Boone, Emma Morgan, Clarence Hart, Mrs. Clarence Hart, his wife, the unknown heirs of George Ward and Frances Ward, his wife, the unknown heirs of Gun Ward, the unknown heirs of Mary Ward, the unknown heirs of Louisa Brewer and Booker T. Washington, Larsson Washington and Mattie Montgomery are wanted to appear in this court within thirty days and answer the complaint of the Plaintiff, School District No. 1-A of Hempstead County, Arkansas.

Witness my hand and the seal of said court this 12 day of Sept. 1951.

Arkansan Has New Lease on Life

Marco Beach, Fla., Sept. 13 (AP)—An Arkansas man, who literally has a new lease on life, can be seen here today in return to his home in Little Rock.

"I don't remember here who did it," said Carl Hinson, 38, who was shot in the chest by a bullet from a bullet wound in the neck. When taken to the hospital, doctors told him he was dead.

And doctors here agree that the recovery is a miracle.

The 38-year-old, tipped 160 pounds, had been shot in the chest and the upper and lower portions of his body.

Twenty points of blood were found on his body, including his face and hands. He had been shot by a bullet from a bullet wound in the neck.

"I don't know a thing," Hinson, who was shot in the chest and the upper and lower portions of his body, said today.

Big 3 Turns to Grand Strategy

Washington, Sept. 12 — (AP) — The Big Three foreign ministers turned today from preliminary talks to the West's grand strategy in the struggle against Communist aggression.

Efforts to contain Soviet pressure and terms of a partnership deal to be offered West Germany were major points before Secretary of State Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman.

Since Monday Acheson has been talking separately with Morrison and Schuman. Today at a luncheon meeting the three men were scheduled for the first time in the current talks to come together for a general review of cold war developments. Also on the agenda were the Iranian oil crisis and other Middle East issues.

A plan has been drafted to conclude the occupation, hand over all most complete sovereignty to the Bonn (West Germany) government, change the status of Allied troops to defense forces and substitute ambassadors for high commissioners. The Bonn parliament will have to ratify this "contractual arrangement." At the same time, Western Germany would be expected to agree to contribute forces to the European army being formed to serve under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Atlantic pact command.

Berlin, divided and surrounded by Sovietized East Germany, would retain its present four-power occupation. The "contractual arrangement" falls short of a peace treaty and does not match terms given Japan. But it represents the most advanced step the West considers feasible as long as Germany is divided.

Concluding the preliminary phases of the conference, Acheson and Schuman went over issues of particular concern to the United States and France for nearly three hours late yesterday. Officials said they talked mostly about Germany and the Communist threat to Indo-China.

Schuman reportedly also pressed France's view that since a "soft" peace treaty has been signed with Japan, it is time to revise Italy's harsher 1947 treaty.

The Italian peace treaty limits her armed forces to 300,000 and severely restricts her in armor, air force and navy. Japan will be free to rearm after the treaty comes into effect.

DOROTHY DIX

Mother's Responsibility

Dear Miss Dix: I have been married twice, have two children by my first husband and one by my second. My ex-husband had the custody of our two girls until recently. He neglected them, and when I went to see them they were dirty and sick. Sometimes for five or six months I never even knew where they were. I got them back from their father and things were all right until someone began telling my husband lies about me. He believed these stories and left me. Now I have the three children and don't know where to turn. Should I send the older ones back to their father or try to struggle on?

MIRIAM

Answer: Both your husbands should be responsible for the support of their children, and since you live in a large city, consult the Legal Aid Society or the Family Counseling Service for advice in this matter.

He Will Mistreat Them

Knowing the treatment your ex-husband will give the youngsters if they're returned to him, you would certainly be doing wrong in giving them up. Through the help of either agency I have mentioned your present husband may be persuaded to return to you.

You are beyond all doubt in the midst of a very muddled affair and you need expert personal help in straightening it out.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been separated from my husband for approximately six months. We were both very young when we married and through most of the ten years of wedded life we were never happy. As we had no children, we agreed to separate.

Since the settlement of property and legal separation papers have been signed, I have had several opportunities to go out with nice men. I have turned them down because of the fact I did not know whether, morally speaking, a woman should go out with men until she has secured legal divorce. I have noticed that many women do, but should they?

BARBARA

Answer: Many women don't even wait for a legal separation to go out with other men, and I admire your delicacy in questioning the ethics of conduct in your case.

Since you are concerned with doing the right thing, forget dating until the divorce has been granted. Wagging tongues can do a lot of damage, and even though the separation has been granted, trouble could still be caused by malicious gossip. Avoid it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been writing to a boy in service who has been overseas for seven months. Almost three months have passed since I last heard from him. Should I continue writing even though he doesn't write me? I know he is far from home and likes to hear from his friends. I just don't want to make a nuisance of myself.

B. W.

Answer: Keep on writing, but be sure your letters are in a friendly cheerful vein. Remember, too, delivery of mail from overseas is very uncertain and he may have several letters on the way. Give him the benefit of the doubt and send your mail.

This young man is as anxious to see this dream of ours become a reality, as we are, but we can't sit at home, and leave it up to Mr. Jones. He has his work cut out for him, and so do we. Illinois, Ohio Guards Alerted for Duty

Washington, Sept. 12 — (AP) — The army today alerted the Illinois and Ohio National Guard divisions for active service early next year.

They are the 37th Infantry Division of Ohio and the 44th from Illinois, commanded respectively by Maj. Gen. Leo Kreber and Maj. Gen. Harry L. Hulen.

The 37th will report to Camp Puck, La., about Jan. 15 and the 44th to Camp Cooke, Calif., about Feb. 15, the army said.

Six national guard divisions already are on active duty and the army disclosed today that another still undesignated division will be called to service later in 1952.

The 40th and 45th Guard Divisions drawn from California and Oklahoma respectively, are completing their advanced training now in northern Japan.

Two other guard divisions have been alerted for movement to Europe before the end of this year. They are the 28th from Pennsylvania and the 43rd drawn from Connecticut, Rhode Island and Vermont.

The other two guard divisions in federal service are the 31st and the 47th. The 31st, composed of men from Alabama and Mississippi, is training at Fort Jackson, S. C. The 47th Division, drawn from Minnesota and North Dakota, is training at Camp Rucker, Ala.

The army said that the members of the 37th and 44th divisions will be permitted to volunteer for advanced military schooling during the months before their units have to report at the designated training camps.

The still unnamed guard division that is earmarked for duty next year will be given at least four months notice before being called up, the army added.

RFC Denies Loan to St. Louis Firm

Washington, Sept. 12 — (AP) — The Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced today it has stopped paying out money on a loan to a St. Louis business concern because of "failure to report" and agreement to pay retainer fees to a Washington law firm.

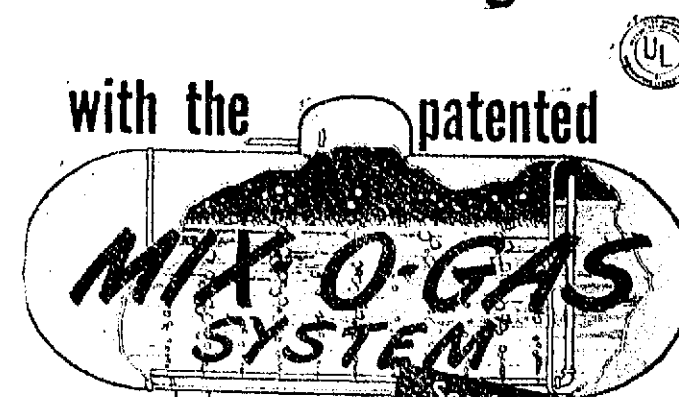

Administrator W. Stuart Schinnerer also announced the RFC has found "reasons to believe there were misstatements of fact and other 'irregularities'" in a $15,000 loan to St. Louis Lumber Industries, Inc., Thomasville, Ala.

The St. Louis firm was the American Fixture and Manufacturing Co. St. Louisington linked it to the Washington law firm of Joseph H. Schinnerer, who figured prominently in the recent senate investigation of outside "influence" on RFC lending.

The St. Louis firm loan also became in for critical attention because of a reported interest in that loan by a close relative of Rep. Boykin (D-Ala.).

Schinnerer said the RFC believes there "may have been a violation of law" in the St. Louis lumber loan, and has turned the case over to the justice department.

Survey Shows U. S. Red Curb Activities

By The Associated Press

The Communist party has closed its doors in many states and sharply reduced its activities in others, a nationwide survey showed today.

The FBI says this is a sign the party has been underground.

But a spokesman for national Communist headquarters said: "We've done the best we could to try to keep our heads above ground. It is not our doing that pressure from authorities, threats of violence and local indignities have prevented public meetings, kept us from renting office space, barred us from printing halls and so on."

Wherever the party has closed branches of the party have closed shop. In other states, offices remain unattended, telephones unanswered. Issuance of literature has stopped, or been heavily curtailed.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says party membership has fallen from 52,000 last year to 37,000 at present. The party's top leaders are on bail, or in jail for conspiracy.

Meetings, when held at all, usually are of small groups in private homes.

Danies Rubber Stockpile Low

Washington, Sept. 12 — (AP) — General Services Administration today denied a Senate committee charge that rubber stockpiles are dangerously low. He told congress the government will not indulge in hoarding of natural rubber, but that it is planning to build up a strategic stockpile.

A report issued by the Senate committee charged that the government has let rubber stockpiles fall to a level that would be dangerous in the event of a sudden shortage.

The committee said the government has let rubber stockpiles fall to a level that would be dangerous in the event of a sudden shortage.

GSA figures showed that total rubber stockpile jumped 11 percent in the last six months, from 1,000,000 to 1,110,000 tons.

The committee said the government has let rubber stockpiles fall to a level that would be dangerous in the event of a sudden shortage.

Comments Acheson's Peace Work

Washington, Sept. 12 — (AP) — Senator McCarthy (R-Miss.) today commented on the peace work of Secretary of State Acheson.

McCarthy said Acheson had done a good job of peace work, but that he had not done enough to stop the spread of Communism in China.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) on the other hand, declared the treaty signed at San Francisco last week to be a good one, but that it was not enough to stop the spread of Communism in China.

McCarthy, in a speech, said that Acheson's peace work was not enough to stop the spread of Communism in China.

The public praise has come from Knowland and Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.). They attended the conference. Both men, particularly Knowland, have been sharply critical of Acheson in the past with respect to administration policy toward the Far East.

"As I understand it," said McCarthy, "Senator Knowland and Smith commended Acheson for the way he presided at the conference sessions, and did not direct their remarks to his policies."

"I don't question the fact that he did a good peace-making job. But for that, the stage setting was beautiful. He kept Nationalist China from attending the conference and he invited the Russians, who fought the Japanese only a few days as compared with the years Nationalist China did."

"It was another clear cut blow at the anti-Communists in China," McCarthy said.

Neither Nationalist China nor Communist China was invited to the conference because of differences among the treaty-signing nations as to which should be represented. For example, the United States recognizes the Nationalist regime and Great Britain recognizes the Communist government.

The tribute to Acheson touched off a dispute among Republicans in the senate yesterday.

Senator Malone (R-Nev.) challenged the treaty as a step he said will be followed by an alliance between Japan and Red China. He declared the pact represents "the beginning of the final downfall of Nationalist China," and predicted the inevitable result will be "the triumph of Communist China into the United Nations."

As for Acheson, Malone shouted that the cabinet officer "has been

Pieping Radio Says Apology to Be Rejected

Tokyo, Thursday, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Pieping radio blurted today the Communists might reject an Allied apology for the accidental strafing of the Krasong neutral zone Monday.

It carried a dispatch from a Communist correspondent at Krasong saying the Allied "claim" that the strafing was a mistake "is absurd."

While this was no official statement, the dispatches of Communist correspondents frequently forecast the line official reaction will take.

The hope of peace for Korea had been shattered by the Red reaction to the apology. The Reds had been considerable optimists here that the Reds would accept the apology and get back to the negotiation table.

The Reds broke off peace talks Aug. 23, charging that an Allied plane had bombed the neutral area. The Allies flatly denied this charge.

But there was the possibility that the Reds would agree to resume peace negotiations only if the Allies apologize similarly for the 10 other alleged violations of the neutral zone.

Sources close to the U. N. command were optimistic that the talks would be resumed.

These sources said the Supreme

Hammy to the Rescue!

Hammy Gilbert, the telephone line man, often has to rescue cats who climb telephone poles—and sometimes they raise Ned when he tries to get at them. So—he's invented a nifty "cat-snatcher." Saw him use it the other day.

It's a long wooden rod with a loop on top that can be adjusted from the other end. And on top of the rod there's a little platform covered with sheepskin.

Hammy simply loops the cat at long range—lets it get its claws dug into the sheepskin and bingo! —the cat's safely on the ground.
